Growing Up Greatness

This professional learning event is designed for primary and secondary classroom teachers and school leaders who are looking to better understand the profile of gifted underachievers, including key reasons for underachievement and strategies that schools and teachers can implement to turn this around and ensure our underperforming gifted students thrive. If you have ever wondered why you are not seeing the ability of a gifted child in your class, or are frustrated with students who do not seem to be fulfilling their potential, then this professional learning will help you to understand how schools and teachers can identify and work with students whose potential is yet to be uncovered.
